CEMENT SAWDUST CONCRETE

Cement sawdust concrete provides a warmer, softer and drier floor for poultry houses, piggeries and barns, than ordinary concrete. Its weight is about one-third that of ordinary concrete, and its high shock absorbing qualities make it very desirable for floors of animal shelters. Cement sawdust concrete is a mixture of portland cement, sawdust and water, with a portion of sand often added to increase resistance to wear. Its uses and how to make it are described in detail in a booklet entitled "Cement-Sawdust Concrete", now available from the Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.
